+April who is leading this investigation (and since I'm OOO)

In my initial review of the data, I didn't find her complaint to be accurate, but I still partnered with April to look into it given the comment about "male" hires. I think April is almost done with the investigation so I'll defer to her for resolution confirmation.

Hi all -

We looked into it and verified with Will that she was brought in at the right level. She has also raised this with Kevin. Will and I have both spoken to her about it.

This is a consistent refrain that she keeps bringing up - I was under-leveled at hire, we are bringing in candidates that she considers herself more senior in, etc. She wanted us to re-level her in OCTO and I told her quite directly that the only way that a level changes at Google is via the promotion process.

I am not aware of where Kevin is at in terms of looking into this matter when she re-raised it after the re-org.

Thanks Tariq for flagging. Agree important to look into and address.

@Melissa - if this is something you have already looked into, please let us know.

I vaguely think Kevin may have looked into this and pulled a bunch of data. He's back in the office in a week so we can get clarity then. If he hasn't we'll work on it and have you or Will follow-up with Ulku. In the meantime, totally fine for you to indicate that you've asked us to look into it.

Would be good to have data on whether her point on being brought in at a lower level is true. I don't think it is, and would be good for me or Will Grannis to set her straight on that as I don't think it is good for her to have that perception if that is correct.

Hi Tariq, Diane,

Since it seems to be taking a long time for HR to schedule the meeting with Diane, I thought I would send you both this note to reiterate my strong interest in the "Head of Financial Services" role.

My background makes me particularly well-suited for this role and this is actually the position I was originally hired for. When I joined Google with Office of the CTO, it was with the understanding that when Cloud verticalizes, I would be the person leading Financial Services.

I'm concerned that certain decisions made in connection with my initial hiring are impeding me in this process, and I want to make sure that you know the full context. Shortly after I joined Google, I discovered that I was hired in at a more junior level than my male peers (an issue I raised with HR and HR is actively investigating). I see that the external candidates, some of whom are far less qualified than me, are being considered as VP candidates. I believe I am the most qualified person for the position and hope that I will be given due consideration, notwithstanding my current lower level.

Diane, I am very much looking forward to meeting you.

Best,
Ulku
